CLEARANCE

Some manufacturers have zero percent financing...yea, it does sound good. How much difference is there between zero percent and 0.9%? ok, for every thousand financed over 60 months it makes a $0.38 difference. 38 cents? That's it. Buy the car you really want! Not the finance rate!†

†To qualified buyers. 0% is $16.67 per thousand over 60 months. 0.9% is $17.05 per thousand over 60 months. Net difference is $0.38.

Fun Fact: A Honda automobile factory in Ohio has made its 10 millionth vehicle, the first Honda plant outside Japan to reach that milestone. The vehicle - an Accord sedan - rolled off the assembly line last Tuesday in Marysville, about 30 miles northwest of Columbus. The factory opened in 1982 and the first vehicle produced there also was an Accord sedan. Honda partners with nearly 600 North American suppliers, including 530 in the U.S. and 160 in Ohio, in the production of passenger cars and light trucks.
